Thank You for joining East End Arts in honoring Suffolk County National Bank.

Suffolk County National Bank has set an example in corporate citizenship on the East End, guided by its belief that the collaboration between business and the arts strengthens and enriches communities. SCNB is a major underwriter of East End Arts Signature Programs, providing vital links between the arts and our community through programs including: Winterfest: Live on the Vine, Community Mosaic Street Painting Festival, Teeny Awards, and Harvest Gospel Concert Series.

With the ongoing support of both corporate and individual donors, East End Arts has been serving our diverse community of artists and musicians for over 40 years through exhibitions, performances, and events. We also seek to provide leadership for the cultural development of our five East End towns, and deliver essential education programming and professional development opportunities for children and adults.

This year East End Arts celebrates 20 years of providing education in the arts! The East End Arts School offers private and group music lessons for children and adults, in addition to instruction in studio arts, theater and homeschool extracurricular courses for students of all ages. For 20 years, our renowned and experienced faculty has been sharing the joy of art, theater and music with beginners, advanced students, and all levels in between. East End Arts School serves more than 500 students on the economically and racially diverse East End. Eighteen percent of EEA students are recipients of scholarships.

Your attendance at tonight's event not only shows your gratitude for Suffolk County National Bank's support of the arts, but also assists East End Arts in its efforts to serve our community through gallery exhibitions, educational programs, festivals and more. You are East End Arts. Thank you!

Sincerely yours,

LIVE AUCTION: LOT 1

2001 Screaming Eagle Cabernet Sauvignon

Donated by Howard Bluver

If any vineyard exemplifies the California cult wine phenomena, it's Screaming Eagle. Since 1992, its wine has been at the top of the hot, must-have collectible charts. The 2001 Cabernet Sauvignon kicks off with a complex nose, with oak, smoke, earth, gun flint, mineral, fresh blackberry and cherry essence that gets your attention. The soft, lush, sensuous, plush, ripe fruits and low acid profile feels great on your palate as well. Refined and pure, this is perhaps the most elegant styled California Cabernet Sauvignon made today.

The portfolio was printed at the Atelier Crommelynck in Paris in 1965 and published in a single edition of 130, with each edition comprised of 20 plates. The Unité etchings celebrate organic arrangements in their compositions that simply and masterfully blend color, line and form. While working in this direction, Tina has come to learn a lot more about power animals and their medicine and how they can be guides for us in our daily lives. "Medieval Tapestry I" (Detail/Horse) Photograph, 12" x 12"

Donated by Robert Moore

Robert Moore prefers photographing and collecting fragments of reality to be combined, stretched, and painted over to make something unique. This technique, however, does not call attention to itself in the end result because he strives to make his images look like traditional photographs, classical paintings, or something between the two. As a classically-trained photographer, Moore subscribed to this methodology years ago, using film, chemicals, and the darkroom. Medieval Tapestry is an artist's proof photograph, using encaustic wax infusion process.

Silent Auction: Lot 7

"Brockway Pond, New Hampshire" Oil on canvas, 12" x 12"

Donated by Bryan Gutman

Brockway Pond, New Hampshire, is a wonderful example of painting directly from nature. As a local artist, Gutman's keen eye for color has inspired him for many years to paint scenes usually around tributaries, ponds and creeks. Since the foliage closest to the water changes the earliest, Bryan starts as soon as mid-September visiting his favorite spots to monitor their autumnal changes. The artist completes most of his compositions in "plein-air" (painting on location) while surrounded by the sounds of nature and natural light. The fleeting beauty of bright reds, oranges and golden yellows are interpreted with exuberance in his work. He has remained committed to painting since completing his MFA degree from Brooklyn College in 1984.

"Perplexed" Pencil and ink on paper

Donated by Jeanette Martone

This drawing of a boy on a bike gazing at the viewer with a perplexed look on his face exhibits Jeanette Martone's distinctive global-fusion style. By limiting color, and emphasizing texture in her drawings, attention is focused on the essential elements of the subject. Complex images are formed that are reminiscent of the protoplasmic origins of life we share. The simplicity and purity of pencil and paper lend an immediacy and intimacy to the work. By creating an interconnectedness between the subject and viewer, it opens up unfamiliar emotions, introspective questioning, and the search for answers.

Fired at temperatures upward of 1250°F, anything organic, including the clay binder, burns away and fuses the silver leaving an objet d'art of .999 pure silver. Bottle of Jefferson's Ocean: Aged at Sea

Donated by: Jefferson's Bourbon

Jefferson's Ocean: Aged at Sea Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whisky begins with aged bourbon barrels and ships them around the world. Stopping in 5 different continents and crossing the equator 4 times, this bourbon truly is a world beater. Jefferson's makes bourbon in small batches – ridiculously small batches – showcasing the different flavors that result from the wood in each barrel, as in the case of single-barrel bourbons. Jefferson's believes that maintaining the consistency found in small-batch bottling is like making dinner for 8 friends rather than a group of 80 people.

Cash value: $80 and up
